

I came to Luxembourg in 2008 after many years spent in real multicultural environments. I joined the European Commission in 2014 where I work as an assistant in the field of translation.

I believe in the principle of treating people equally, thus my main goal is to ensure that colleagues at the Commission get the same - fair and equal - treatment irrespective of their function group or the type of contract under which they are employed.